How can I help my child succeed?

- Be on time for school.
- Praise your child's efforts. Your acceptance and praise of your child's work at his/her level (not at adult standards) is very necessary in the development of self awareness.
- Prepare for parent-teacher conferences. This is the time when you and the teacher talk over problems, share ideas, and make plans together so your child's two worlds, home and school, work together.
- Please read the notes that are written on your child's papers. They will give you some indication between conferences of how your child is doing.
